5 NEW-TO-YOU ARTISTS FOR YOUR HOME

BY LEILANI HENSON

JOANNA TICE

Love floral arrangements but hate keeping them alive? Consider immortalizing the local flora in your home through wall art instead of live plants. Joanna Tice is a York based painter who specializes in acrylic and oil paintings. As a lover of nature, Tice frequently paints the landscape surrounding her whether it be her garden, a nearby forest, or somewhere she has traveled. Offering commissioned work as well as themed collections, Tice's work will bring bright, invigorated scenes of meadows and pastures to your space.

JENNY GERMANN

For homes with a natural aesthetic (exposed brick, hardwood, neutral decor), we suggest one of Jenny Germann's original wood burned paintings. Perfect for homes with a woody feel, Germann's work captures the nostalgia and emotions of the Susquehanna valley, from scenes of Lancaster Central Market to detailed scenes of Longwood Gardens' flower wall. A Jenny Germann original will warm your space by bringing distant memories of Central PA to life and make it even cozier than before.

JAYMI VILARDO

Looking for a conversation starting piece to bring into your home? Or something bright, vibrant, and abstract? Jaymi Vilardo is the artist for you. A current student at the Pennsylvania College of Art and Design, Vilardo experiments with color and mixed mediums to create pieces that speak to an overall theme. Open to commissions and curation, Vilardo's pieces are sure to be the center of attention at your next dinner party.

MARIA TOMASSETTI

Maria Tomasetti is a local illustrator and muralist whose work is sure to bring together any space. With a light and airy feel, Tomasetti's illustrations of pets, couples, and floral arrangements will brighten the room. Specializing in watercolor, a Tomasetti original is soft enough to make a room cohesive and bright without taking away from the beauty of the interior design. Tomasetti's versatile yet specific style goes with any space.

KEISHA FINNIE

Who says interior decor has to stop at wall art? Keisha Finnie, a Lancaster based artist, believes that home decor can be anything from mugs to planters to paintings and even lampshades. A Lancaster Native, Finnie's work is heavily inspired by her experiences as a woman growing up in a culturally diverse community. Featuring Finnie's signature line drawings of the female face and various foliage, Finnie's work will fit in any area of your home.
